Application for the Degrees of Freemasonry

Freemasonry is a social, religious and fraternal society. It has for its foundation principals, the Fatherhood of God and the Brotherhood of Man. It believes in a Supreme Being and the immortality of the soul.

The volume of the Sacred Law is God's gift to man, as the rule and guide for its faith and conduct, is open on our Altar whenever a Lodge is in session.

Freemasonry teaches man the duty he owes to God, his neighbour and himself. It inculcates the practise of virtue and morality in all its relationships of life.

In no sense is the Masonic fraternity to be regarded as an insurance society. It does not pay benefits in the case of sickness and death. The true Mason, however, will be charitable in thought and deed and ever willing to render such assistance to the distressed as his circumstances in life may permit.

The Masonic institution does not solicit members. It does not hold out any promise of personal gain or material advantage. Those who seek admission must do so entirely of their own free will and accord.

Freemasonry welcomes to its fellowship, men of honour, reputation and good will, men of benevolent instincts who are concerned for the welfare and happiness of their fellow creatures,

Of such is the brotherhood of Freemasonry. If you are of the same mind then complete the enclosed form.
